

FROM TED TO LILLIAN

Lillian Halpin of High Street and Ted Kennedy, of Hyannis, and Washington DC have several things in common, even if she is but a High School senior, and he a United States Senator.

The 17 year old girl, daughter of Mr and Mrs Ralph E Halpin, is a patient in the Peter Brent Brigham hospital, in Boston, and the Senator, as is well known, is a patient in the New England Baptist. Both are suffering from back ailments, hers congenital, and his from an injury.

Lillian underwent an operation last Friday to correct a Curvature of the Spine

Lillian didn't look forward with pleasure to such an operation, but she thought of Ted, and his current troubles, and wrote him a letter.

It was on July 20th. that she first wrote.

'You may at first wonder why I'm writing to you, and I hope this letter explains. I am at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital with a curvature of the spine. I am only 16 years old, and will be 17 on July 31.

I am about to have an operation which involves a bone transplant and fusion from legs to back.

My mother told me about your courage and determination, even when the doctors were contemplating giving you a fusion operation.

I have gained courage from the fact that, if you have the courage to withstand much greater pain than mine, I must withstand it too.

In a way, we are in the same ship, but God is our co-pilot and he won't let the ship sink. I have a girl friend here who is 14 and wears a preader cast from waist to toe on the right and from waist to knee on the left.

If I had an ounce of her courage and yours, I could conquer all fears

I was in Washington when I heard of your accident and I went to Arlington National Cemetery to pray at your brother's graveside for your safety. Somehow I felt him there telling me you wouldn't fail. I never realized then how close our cases would become.

I shall share my favorite verse with you: 'I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my health'

I will continue to pray for your speedy recovery. All I ask of you is just, if you get the chance, pray for me and send me an ounce of your courage.

I feel that your family is distinguished, not by their wealth and their political feats, but by their bravery and triumph over disaster.

You were spared by God for greater things, and although the road to recovery is long for both of us, you must not fail and I know you won't.

I tried to write in my best Eng-

Since, Robert Hall has been a consistent leader in serving the community

THE PICTURE OF THE WEEK: It was Saturday afternoon, at the home of Rene LaRivee, on Concord Street, and all the Democrats were making merry, when Dick Clements of Tewksbury brought down a hand painted oil of President Kennedy.

The problem of where to place the picture took up the collective time of the Chairman of the Democratic Party, and the Chairman of the Board of Selectmen. They decided to hang it on the refreshment booth which Freddy Kleynah was running.

Freddy came out through a window to volunteer help, which, it turned out, was not needed. So he turned to go back, - just as the shutter of the camera snapped.

Mary Cunningham of Fairmeadow Road says the title should be: 'Just hand me that staple gun, Jimmy!'

VETERAN'S WELFARE COSTS DECREASING

The cost of assistance to needy Veterans and their families is decreasing, Veteran's Agent Jim Banda told the Finance Committee Monday evening.

Atty. Banda appeared before the Finance Committee to speak for a transfer of $10,000 from the Reserve Fund, - a transfer that had already been approved by the Board of Selectmen.

There were 41 'cases' in June

Mr Banda said, and there are now 32.

One of the cases costs $11,000 a year. It involves a child in a hospital, at which the costs are $954 a month. Banda was unable to give any prognosis as to the eventual disposition of the case.

The cost to the town for Veterans Aid was $2567 in July, a little over $3800 in June, $5500 in May, $6000 in April, and $7400 in March.

The $10,000 requested, Banda told the board, should just about 'carry' the expenses through the end of December. As of the end of August he expected to have the sum of $1423.46 left in his accounts

CAMPBELL IS PRESIDENT OF PHOTON

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of Photon, Inc., of Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington, last Thursday, the Directors elected Kurtz M Hanson Chairman of the Board, and Robert M Campbell President of the Company and Chief Executive Officer.

At the same meeting Arthur E Spellissy, a Director of the company since 1959 and Chairman of the Finance Committee since 1960 was elected Treasurer.

Mr. Campbell has been associated with Photon since May 1961, and was elected Executive Vice President of the Company early in 1962. Mr Hanson says that these changes reflect the demands of the expanding business of the company and provide strength and the facility for building the greater depth of management required.

'BRUTALITY' CHARGES FINISHED

There was a hearing, last Thursday, in the Clerk of the Court's office in Woburn Court, which ended up in the dismissal of any possible charges against the Wilmington Police, alleging 'brutality'.

Twenty persons were crowded into that small office, where Clerk Charles Loring conducted the hearing.

Two of the three accused police officers were present, with Attorney Simon Cutter representing all three. Mr. Cutter had taken the precaution of having a Court Stenographer present, to record every word that was spoken.

To make a long story short, what Mr Cutter did in one phase of the hearing was to win an admission from one of the boys that they had been with Freddy Lena, in Woburn, several hours after the assault on Sgt. Shepard, and after they were supposed to have been subjected to the 'brutality'. In other words the boys were shown by the testimony not to be innocent by-standers, who had not seen Lena, as they told the Town Manager a couple of weeks ago.

THE END OF THE DROP?

Thinking people cannot but approve of the latest actions taken by Angle Sorrentino, the embattled owner of Baby Beach, at Silver Lake.

Mr Sorrentino has acquired a lease for a part of the 'Drop' and is transferring his operations to that place, at least in part.

His operations at Baby Beach, of course, are a current subject of controversy, and have no part in this discussion.

What is good about his actions is that he has caused a lot of the brush and hide-away places at the Drop to be bulldozed out of existence. It is understood that he hopes shortly to bulldoze the rest of the brush away, the brush which is where Hale's Ice-houses stood 40 years ago.

There will be, as a result, much less of an 'attractive nuisance' in this area - and the people who have been using the 'Drop' for a midnight rendez-vous will be perhaps looking for another place, as there will be no place at the Drop in which to hide.

Mr Sorrentino, it is understood, is sharing a part of the area which is zoned for Neighborhood Business with the barbershop nearby, and the Silver Lake Hardware, in order to provide off street parking for those two places.

Which will be another improvement.

ON THE LAND APPRAISAL HASSLE

The first observation that must be made in connection with the current hassle about appraisal of industrial and business properties in Wilmington is that it is too easy to jump to a hasty conclusion.

Several different assumptions could be made, and all of them could be, at least in part, incorrect.

One of these assumptions would be that the merchants and industrialists are just worrying about their own taxes.

There is a much deeper reason.

The development of any community by the construction of homes merely causes an increase in the tax rate. New homes mean more children, which means more schools, which means greater costs to the town government, and any official who thinks that the thing to do is to get a lot of homes into a given area is rightly to be suspected of loose thinking.

The development of a community by the construction of industry has an opposite effect. Thus it is, for instance, that Uncle Avco bears 19% of the tax burden of Wilmington, and this without having a single child in the Wilmington schools.

Everyone should be happy about this, and the industrialists and business men of Wilmington are, for they know that only by distributing the tax burden through more valuation can taxes be kept at a decent level.

And, that is why the members of the Chamber of Commerce are really concerned.

They can see future industry and business being 'scared away' by oppressive land taxes.

Maybe they are wrong, but their thinking bears serious thought.

What Happened

What has happened is that the Principal Assessor of Wilmington has raised the appraisals of many pieces of industrial and business land from 300% to, in some cases, 5 or 600%.

It is his duty to appraise, and one can argue that he is only fulfilling his duty.

But there are questions. Nothing is official yet, and will not be until the Assessor affixes his name to the list of taxed properties. As such nothing is to be construed as being 'public information'. No one can really know the whole story until the information becomes 'public' and then it will take time for study and assimilation of facts.

The Drawback

The drawback to all this is the date set by law for appeals for abatements, and the fact that taxes must be paid before one can appeal for an abatement of taxes.

As the Town Crier understands things, the appeal for abatement must be made before the first of November.

That means, with tax bills as late as they are, and probably not to appear until nearly September, that many landowners are going to have to scramble to raise unexpected monies to pay their bill, before they can appeal - either that or just keep quiet and pay the bill later when they raise the money.

Not every one can raise money in a hurry, and that is what will be required in this instance.

'Industrial Land'

Wilmington has one thing for certain, and that is land that is zoned for 'Industry'.

The City of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, has 800 acres of Industrial Land. Wilmington has 1600, more or less.

TOWN NOTES

The Nashua Colts

Last year Wilmington had a professional football team - the Wilmington Chargers. This year the team is in Nashua, and is known as the Nashua Colts.

We believe the Colts start their season this week - we are not certain. But, we do intend to see them play at least once this year, for there are still a lot of ex-Wilmington players on the team.

It was fun having the Chargers around, but it probably wasn't for owner Lee Chisholm.

Lee had to spend $400 for the temporary lights, every time the Chargers had a home game. Now, in Nashua, it costs him $100, and the lights are permanent.

One of the Wilmington players who did not live in Wilmington was Brian Mulligan of Westford, who played left guard. Brian is a fine man for a football team, and we enjoyed seeing him in action.

As a result of playing with the Chargers he is now employed with Baldwin Steel, in North Wilmington which, of course, is neither here nor there as a story, but is worth a note in a column like this.

This we know, - sometime or other, this fall, we are going to take a trip to watch the Nashua Colts in action. It will be worth while!

It Really Happened

One of the jokes of our modern civilization concerns the problems of airplane transportation.

The classical story is short and brief: Breakfast in Bombay, Lunch in London, and Dinner in New York, with baggage in Capetown.

So, it happened to Dave Stewart, an employee of Gullid Plastics.

He was sent to Frankfurt, Germany on business. He got on the plane in Boston with his baggage and clothes, made one stop in New York, and then on to Frankfurt.

His baggage and clothes? They, too, made the stop in New York and ended up in Miami!

The New Avco

Wilmington has a new Avco plant effective last Friday.

The Avco Industrial Division moved into their new plant in N. Wilmington, as of that date, from Lowell.

It is a sort of grandchild to the Lowell Street plant, being an offspring of Lowell's Avco, which is an offspring of Wilmington's.

Now there are rumors afoot in North Wilmington that the Wilmington Development Company will shortly begin another building, down near the railroad track, to further house Avco expansion.

Manager

One of the most puzzled persons to attend the Democratic Cookout at Rene LaRivee's last Saturday, must have been Atty Daniel Joyce of Woburn.

Mr Joyce, who is a newcomer to politics, was introduced to another candidate for the state legislature from the 34th Middlesex District, namely Charles Black, Selectman and life long Republican.

They chatted amiably for a few moments and were joined by Fred Cain, who is backed not only by Wilmington Democrats, but many Independents too, in his bid for the seat in the 34th District.

'Oh!' Joyce said, suddenly. 'You are Mr. Black. You are the Republican Candidate!'

'No,' said Charlie, taking Fred's arm, 'I'm Fred Cain's Campaign Manager!'

CONSERVATIVES

If you wish to preserve the glorious country and humane civilization which we ourselves inherited, first investigate our constructive opposition to Communism. Because we are effective we have been smeared by every conceivable method, but the time has come when you should find out for yourself. Introductory Packet postpaid, in plain envelope if preferred, for one dollar.

And, only a few years back, when the town had its 'Bump on the Log' government in the Town Hall, there was a further rezoning of hundreds of acres of land, hastily, and under conditions that amounted to secrecy. It will be recalled that when the whole thing was over the Planning Board said 'Never Again!'

The motive behind that last rezoning was a hope that 'Lightning Might Strike' and that some industry would come along, and say 'that land looks good!' The net result, of course, would have been to make the Town Hall bunch into a Bunch of Heroes. As things turned out only the Planning Board was able to see the whole story, and then only when they had the time to look back at what had happened.

It is quite probable that, in the 'Lightning Might Strike' episode there were people who had their land zoned to Industrial without a by-your-leave motion on the part of the town hall. Now those people, too, are having their appraisals jumped 300 to 600%.

One thing is certain. There will not be, at least in the immediate future, any long line of landowners forming in front of the town hall for the purpose of seeing if they can get their land rezoned to 'Industrial' just for speculative purposes!

Theories

One of the more interesting facets about all this is a school of thought which was long advocated by a gentleman who is no longer a Selectman of Wilmington.

In and out of Selectmen's meetings this gentleman held that the landowners of Wilmington were refusing to sell land to industry, even when it was properly zoned, because they wanted to make a 'killing'.

He might have been right, and it is altogether possible that he was wrong.

And, while he is no longer in office, his theories are now being put to a test.

And a Few More Items

Just because a piece of land is zoned one way or another does not mean that it is necessarily zoned for its best use.

A few years ago, in Natick, one of the major stores in New England suddenly moved in, buying 85 acres of farmland, and paying $15,000 an acre for it.

Obviously there was a reason for the price. Perhaps the store was unable to find an 85 acre tract elsewhere, and for that reason was willing to pay $15,000.

Did that mean that all land in Natick was worth $15,000 an acre?

Not so, necessarily. The very next piece of land could possibly be worth only a few hundred dollars an acre - because no one wanted to buy it.

Land is worth what a willing buyer and a willing seller agree it is worth. A ruling by anyone who might be a competent professional in his business that the land is worth more doesn't prove the point, of necessity.

Two years ago the Leto Brothers, who own General Thermodynamics, bought 14 acres of land in Wilmington. They were willing buyers, and the former owner was a willing seller.

That purchase established the value of that land. Today, it is understood, the assessed valuation is to be three times the purchase price.

SHAMROCKS ARE TOWN CHAMPIONS

1964 CHAMPIONS IN SOFTBALL: THE SHAMROCKS.

Rear: Owner Harold Foley, Bob Oougherty, Jack Pellerin (Capt) Billy Woods, Fred Robbins, Jimmy Preston, Dick Ethier, Tom Stack, Billy Gracie and Phil Nelson.

Harold Foley's Shamrocks are the Town Champions, in softball. They accomplished the impossible last Thursday evening by defeating Cagy Sam Ethier's All Stars, a team made especially for the purpose of defeating the Shamrocks, out of the best players in various teams of the Wilmington Soft Ball League.

Cagy Sam came out of retirement just for the purpose of defeating the shamrocks, and further, he engaged the services of another top-coach, George Thompson, to make that defeat 100% certain.

But when Cagy Sam finished counting his Cagy Sam Scoring Sticks, Thursday night, there were three broken sticks for the Shamrocks, and he had ticked off only two runs for his own team.

It was supposed to have been an awful slaughter. It wasn't.

The Shamrocks really won the championship two nights previously, in a game with the Charles River Breeding Laboratory team, captained by George Thompson, with Howie, star pitcher, in half a dozen teams, including the Uncle Avco team, where he works.

Davy Newhouse, who was one of the stars of the game, for the Shamrocks, opened the scoring when he stole home in the first inning. This was one of his outstanding plays of the game. In the fifth inning, while playing Center Field, Davy made a perfect throw to Catcher Dick Ethier, to throw out the tying run, and save the game for the Shamrocks.

Second Baseman Bill Gracie climaxed the game, in the last of the seventh, for the Shamrocks.

The tying run was on second base. John Robbins was at bat for the Charles River team. Jack Knowlton put a ball across, and

'WILL TAKE A LONG AND HARD LOOK'

Among the Wilmington firms that feel the pinch badly because of the new appraisal policy of the town of Wilmington is General Thermodynamics, on Ballardvale Street.

Joseph Leto of Lexington and his brother Salvatore bought 14 acres of land for their firm, two years ago. They were, at that time, located in Cambridge.

They bought with an eye to the future. They needed, for the moment, only a few acres, but the firm, which is essentially a development shop, among other things has a small gas turbine which it expects to market in the near future.

When they market their turbine they feel they will need a lot of space, because the company is going to grow. The turbine is just slightly larger than the one now being tried out in Chrysler cars, and should be adaptable for many uses, particularly industrial applications.

The 14 acres which the brothers bought has tripled in value, in two years, according to the appraisal of the Town. The brothers feel that this places a heavy burden on them at this time.

They told the Town Crier, yesterday morning, 'One of the principal factors in selecting Wilmington was assurance that the town encouraged industrial growth.'

'It was believed at that time that the town government was stable, and had some continuity to it, and it was impossible to envision radical changes in policy.'

'With the change in personnel, it is felt that the town attitude has changed, and when the planned expansion date is at hand the Leto brothers will take a very long and hard look at Wilmington before investing any more money in the town'.

WILMINGTON WOMENS CLUB WILL SPONSOR DANCING CLASSES

The Wilmington Women's Club will again this fall sponsor dancing classes for grades six through twelve, in the cafeteria of the North School, in North Wilmington.

The series of 12 lessons, to be held every two weeks, will start September 3-th under the instruction of Russell Curry of the Curry School of Dancing, in Boston. The latest as well as traditional steps will be taught. Social etiquette and building self-confidence and poise will also be included.

The Women's Club committee, under Mrs William Traer, consists of Mrs John Boeri, Mrs William Buck, Mrs Charles Crotty, Mrs John Elia, Mrs Edmund Ferguson, Mrs John Hayward, Mrs Willis Lyford, Mrs Winthrop Polsey and Mrs Mitchell Spiris.

THE RUNNERS UP: The Charles River Breeding Laboratory Softball team.

VETERANS (Fr. Fr. Pg)

erans did not amount to much, Banda told the board. The average runs between $25 and $37 a month. Carl Gubellini, former chairman of the Finance Committee asked Banda if it would be alright if he received $5000 now, and then returned in October to the board, when he had a better idea of expenses for the end of the year. He could get the $5000 at that time, Gubellini said, if all of it was needed.

This was agreeable to Banda, and the finance Committee voted the $5000, out of the $29,500 still left in the Finance Committee Reserve Account.

The Finance Committee then voted, under circumstances that were similar, to advance $5000 to the accounts of Welfare Agent Walter Coleman.

Mr Coleman had had a $10,000 approval from the Board of Selectmen, and will report back to the Finance Committee in October for the second $5000, or what is needed at that time.

Coleman's 'town' account had a balance of only $232.00. Medical care for the aged, and Aid to Dependent Children was the big story with Coleman.

'My appropriations are going to get larger as years come along, because of the liberalizing of the laws' Coleman told the Committee. He said that the town owed $3222 to other communities, on various aids, but that these bills would not be paid until the end of the year 'which is the customary way'.

Coleman had $78,604 in the town account at the beginning of the year, and still more in the 'Federal' account, which is a separate one. He reported that he had expended nearly $5000 on one case, for a boy.

He is spending about $10,000 a month, he said, on welfare cases. The town, through the Finance Committee, cut his appropriation by the sum of $19,000 in the budget at the town meeting, this spring.

The Finance Committee refused to approve of a $1000 transfer to the Permanent Building Committee, a transfer that had been approved by the Selectmen.

The transfer was to provide money for an appraisal of land in West Wilmington, expected to be taken by eminent domain for a new school site.

Town Counsel Philip Buzzell has advised that the town have the services of an outside appraiser, in all eminent domain cases, before any action is taken.

SALOMAN SAYS HOMEOWNER TAXES UNFAIR - BLAMES LEGISLATURE

The homeowner tax burden is going to be the key issue of Attorney Ronald J. Saloman, Republican candidate for State Representative, in the September 10th primary.

Candidate Saloman, of Burlington is running in the new 34th Middlesex District. He attended a week end seminar for the state's Republican candidates held at State Committee Headquarters at Boston on Saturday.

"The candidates named the homeowner tax burden as the issue most owners and tenants feel is unfair. The runnerup issue was government irresponsibility", said Attorney Saloman.

He said that State Committee research on a statewide basis indicates "the average homeowner tax bill is equivalent to a 3% sales tax each year on the full value of a home. The tax on a $10,000 home is $300; $450 on a $15,000 home and $600 on a $20,000 home".

"The problem with lowering the homeowner tax is twofold", continued candidate Saloman, "one it is the biggest revenue raiser in the state—accounting for $60 out of every $100 collected in taxes in the Commonwealth by state and local governments combined. It is a sitting duck for the Legislature and the Governor who can pass the cost of State House legislation onto the homeowner tax without taxes at the state level.

This year alone the Legislature passed 25 laws directly raising the tax rates in local communities. We were told that two-thirds of most city and town budgets can be traced to the State House without any such rate of reimbursement."

HOW TO SOLVE THE BABY SITTING PROBLEM: According to John Murphy of Carson Avenue. He simply took his three year old youngster down to the police station, and the friendly cops did the rest!

Will a willing buyer come in and pay three times the purchase price that was established two years ago?

Is the land adjoining, which is used, among other things, for the raising of sheep and other animals, worth any more because the Leto Brothers paid their price - or because the Assessor says that the Leto Brothers, in effect, got the land for one-third of its value?

A constant re-appraisal of land, in any town, is a good thing. So, too, is a constant searching of the policies by which the appraisals are made. Too many towns are lethargic and indifferent in this matter.

But it is possible that the judgements made are in error, even in serious error, and that the town's industrial policy will suffer severely as a consequence.

One Joker

There is almost always a joker in a pack of cards, and the joker in this instance is what this new policy is doing, or might do, for Uncle Avco.

Uncle's land is already pretty well filled with buildings worth millions of dollars.

If the policy of upgrading the land values is held, Uncle will pay taxes on $400,000 more valuation on his land.

And others will pay too. The net effect might be to reduce the tax rate (There are those who darkly suspect that this is what it is all about).

If the tax rate is reduced, as the result of all this, and the reduction is, say $2, Uncle will save a lot of tax money on his buildings.

He might even wind up ahead of the game!

STATE SENATOR CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

JAMES J. LONG

State Senator, James J. Long (D) of Woburn announces his candidacy for re-election to the seventh Middlesex District representing the communities of Billerica, Burlington, Lexington, Stoneham, Tewksbury, Wakefield, Wilmington and Woburn.

Senator Long, who is seeking his third term, served on the City Council and the School Committee in Woburn before taking his seat in the senate in 1961.

During the past legislative session, Senator Long was Chairman of the Joint Committee on Civil Service and a member of the Joint Committee on Town and Military Affairs. Previously, Senator Long served as Chairman of the Joint Committee on Mercantile Affairs, a post he surrendered to become Chairman of the important Senate Committee on Engrossed Bills, a standing committee of the Senate.

Senator Long played an active role in passage of two important measures during the past session; the establishment of a branch of the University of Massachusetts in the Greater Boston area, and the bill calling for new construction and enlargement of facilities for retarded children.

The Senator is a well-known real estate broker in Woburn and founder of Long's Auto School.

A widower, the Senator resides with his daughter Helen, a graduate of State College at Lowell, his mother, and two sisters at 14 Plympton Street, Woburn.

Senator Long's life in civic affairs began with election to the Woburn School Committee, an office he held for six years. He then was elected to the Woburn City Council where he served for twelve years. Throughout this entire period, he has been a member of the Democratic City Committee.

During his past two year term, Senator Long worked successfully for a list of bread and butter legislation endorsed by the Democratic Party. Two of the issues enacted were tax cuts for parents of college students and also senior citizens of limited income.

These two measures, in the past two years, were passed as well as measures which raised minimum wages and unemployment compensation and scholarship aid to needy students was doubled. Senator Long firmly backed legislation which retrained 4100 men for new jobs.

Two state departments were re-organized, the department of commerce, to attract new industry and the department of Public Works to improve efficiency.

The legislative record, now behind Senator Long, is probably one of the most successful of any term in a decade.

There were three other bills which passed against tough opposition, a Consumer council was created to protect the dollar of the housewife, something Senator Long and other Democrats fought hard to achieve. The commonwealth's Service Corps, modeled after the late President Kennedy's Peace Corps was organized with relatively small amounts of money appropriated and a lot of promise for success.

On top of this legislation, for the first time, was enacted laws which will attack mass transportation problems on a state-wide level.

Senator Long didn't let the existence of corruption in government pass without doing something about it. He fought for and got laws which put muscle into the new Crime Commission and he also voted for reforms in the State Constitution to curb corruption.

Senator Long personally guarantees that he will continue to devote his time, talents and efforts to the needs of our 7th Senatorial district.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND PRINCIPAL ASSESSOR'S DISCUSSION OF APPRAISING PROBLEMS

As the result of a story in the Town Crier last week, about the assessment of industrial properties and business properties in Wilmington, and as the result of other causes as well, the Chamber of Commerce called a special meeting, Monday morning, to talk over the problems of appraisal in Wilmington with Principal Assessor Fred Grimes.

The meeting was held at 8:30 am in the Chamber's office in the Middlesex County Bank Building, and lasted until after 10 am. Other than Grimes the only person present who was not a member of the Chamber was Selectman Lloyd Bender.

The account which is printed here is a rendition of the major part of the conversation between Grimes and the Chamber members, starting at about 10 minutes after the meeting began, in which time Grimes had discussed a few of the more high priced recent sales of industrial property in Wilmington. Also omitted from the account are a few instances when industrial representatives talked about the future of their companies.

Robt. Sumberg (Avco): The question is - are we pricing too high? Are we keeping new industries out of town?

Grimes: I don't think so. Judging from the prices of land in recent purchases by any serious buyer.

Sumberg: Is all land in Wilmington assessed at 100%? Does this include residential property?

Grimes: We are trying to clean up the slate. We have been working on industrial property this year.

Sumberg: Going to follow up? Grimes: Giving serious thought to a continuous program. Because there are inequities we are trying to clear that up first.

Sumberg: Would you say that 50% of the properties are improperly assessed? 75%?

Grimes: It is hard to say, industrialwise.

Don Greer (J W Greer Co): Is all the land in town being reassessed? Are you making changes in residential properties? Do you think of checking off just as high in residential as you are in industrial?

Grimes: I think I can say we are formulating plans for this.

Greer: I think our argument is that we can wait until all are being re-assessed. There is no argument but that we can all stand re-assessment. Why should you start with industry?

Grimes: It was the most glaring problem - a matter of time too. While a number of situations exist in residential properties, I don't say it is as great as those in the industrial properties.

Atty Alan Altman (Vice President of Chamber) (Acting as Moderator): But by this policy you aren't following the Springfield case.

Grimes: I don't think that's so. In the Springfield case the basis was one of admitted inequities. What we are trying to do is to equate land values in general throughout town, and not a percentage here and a percentage there. I am not an attorney but I think the Springfield case was one in which they were talking inequities of values.

John Caffiso: Didn't the town have a revaluation just a few years ago?

Grimes: An examination of the records shows that in 1961 the town was assessed for 50% of the market values as of 1955. Then the town went double, as the result of the Springfield case.

Allick Epstein: Isn't it true that the underlying reason is to induce people to sell land here in town?

Grimes: No, it isn't. Roger Beaupre: How do you assess along Main Street - frontage or acreage?

Grimes: Both. Along Main St. by foot frontage prices, and in some cases of less than 10 acres

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR NEWTON W MOORE

Newton W Moore, 14 Linda Road North Wilmington, passed away in the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital on August 16th after a lengthy illness.

Born in Everett 74 years ago, he was a resident of Wilmington for the past 18 months. Previously he had lived in Peterboro, N.H. and Melrose, Mass.

Mr Moore is survived by his wife, Frances (Trott), a daughter, Mrs Norma Hanson of Linda Road with whom he had been making his home, and two sons, Robert W Moore of Chicago and Richard A Moore of Indio, California.

Two sisters also survive, and four grandchildren.

Mr Moore had been in the banking business most of his life, and was a retired loan officer.

Funeral services were held from the Nichols Funeral Home on Tuesday August 18th at 11 am with the Rev. Terry Clay Thomason of the Methodist Church officiating.

Burial followed in the Wildwood Cemetery.

in acreage prices.

Bob Evans: What is open residential land in fairly large acreage assessed at?

Grimes: Most figures that I can remember right now - some at $15 a front foot - some higher.

Evans: You can't give us an idea on open land? You've given us details on industrial land?

Grimes: I wouldn't try to make a statement. I am more familiar with industrial - I've been working on that for the past couple of months.

Evans: I can see that! - This is putting a lot of value on our judgement as planners in Wilmington. We have over 1500 acres of industrial land in town. Mr Goodsoe (of the Boston Globe? Ed) says that it is enough to last the town for the next 100 years -- If you are trusting our judgements I am wondering about values.

Grimes: Assessed values are supposed to be on the highest and best use.

Evans: Possibly - if it can be proven. We have 1500 acres on which you can't build houses. You can sell if you can find buyers but we have a 40 years supply anyway - we just will have to pay a lot of taxes on some of the land!

Grimes: Not all the land has the same price. Values have to fit the area at the prices that fit on properties that people are buying.

Evans: I have asked a question about residential sales.

Grimes: I haven't seen every residential sale.

Evans: In other words you don't pounce on residential sales.

Grimes: Took a few minutes to discuss the difference in values of residential properties where abutments keep up the appearance of their properties, and where they do not.

Evans: Pretty speech. Can we understand you are not taking cognizance of residential values?

Grimes: Trying to bring both residential and industrial to the same valuation.

James Raffi: Is what you are doing the same as is being done in other towns in this area?

Grimes: In Andover they are always adjusting valuations in accordance with sales prices.

Fred Cain: Doesn't the law say that the assessors shall evaluate every piece of property every year?

Grimes: We do it to the best of our ability.

Cain: What is the advantage of this? What is the ultimate result? don't people who have to pay more have any recourse? -- Just go back for an abatement? There are differences in some cases. It is almost impossible for the individual owner - industrial or residential - to determine for himself.

Allick Epstein: If we are going to have a revaluation, let's have it for everybody and everything. Why are we just doing industrial properties? The simple reason is that we want new companies to come in, and this is the way we can get people to sell.

Cain: What happens in cases where people have long leases?

Grimes: There are no provisions under Massachusetts law. I assume you are talking where the value of a leaseholder and the value of the key properties are at stake. (He went on to describe two pieces of land, valued the same, but under different status of occupancy) - it is inadvisable for the town to have a lower value on one of two equal properties.

Mr Cain mentioned gas company leases for service stations.

Grimes: In the past 8 or 9 years most leases, more particularly for gas stations, take this into account.

Cain: Is it your thought that the town will pick up a lot of property this way?

Grimes: I have no experience that way.

Mrs Woodside: You mentioned Andover - how about Burlington or Tewksbury?

Grimes: We have to solve our problems here in Wilmington.

Mrs Woodside: This is the Chamber's concern. We are trying to attract more industry in this town. Many industries will be attracted to other towns without such a rate on land.

Grimes: How much difference is say - a $40,000 valuation on land? How much difference would it make to an incoming industry? They consider many other things.

Mrs Woodside: I think it would have been better if we had been told the first of next year - many of us had our budgets made up - have it (revaluation) thrown at you now!

Grimes: I appreciate that. It is difficult to say just how much you can complete. I'm just happening to complete this.

Mrs Woodside: Do you think it is wise? Why not put it aside and do the rest of the town?

Dr. Henry Foster: Is any of the residential land being revalued? Are residential properties being properly assessed?

Grimes: We have been working on the area between Parker Street and Main Street. I'm curious about that point myself - and I ran into some sales and they filled the pattern pretty well.

Melvin Woodside: The area between Weinberg's and Church St. - why higher? Rotary fixed up that swamp and then you put a high value on it. A lot of people contributed to that.

If you were around here ten years ago you wouldn't give ten cents for it! That whole program will stop now!

Dick Tufjenkian: Seems to me that the theory is to welcome new industries, and that the one thing that this will accomplish is to raise the proportionate share that industry will pay. Somehow it doesn't seem fair - it seems that now industry must pay a larger share.

Grimes: There are questions of relative value. Say people bought land a few years ago for $2000 and it is now worth $4, $5,000 - or $10,000. Is it now fair for a person who paid $5000, and for a person who paid $2000 to pay different taxes on land that is worth the same?

Dick Tufjenkian: If it is fair to re-value on new sales in industry, why then is it not fair to do the same thing to residential property?

Grimes: As I pointed out - we are trying to equate values.

Tufjenkian: How does this affect the tax rate?

Grimes: I have no figures yet. Cain: It will lower the tax rate! It will look good on paper!

Epstein: No encouragement now for a person to reclaim land. I filled in ten acres - I might as well just take that fill away. Your going around now - it's not fair until property is built on it!

Sumberg: Would you say that residential property has been brought up?

Grimes: Yes. Sumberg: Then you feel that you are bringing industry up to residential?

Grimes: Yes. Larz Neilson: From what years, historically, are you taking your sales values?

Grimes: From 1958 to the present.

Fred Blackman: The whole thing rests on fairness. If everyone pays his share everybody is happy. Possibly you'll get answers to specifics at a later date.

Harold E Smith: When you mention Wilmington some real estate developers shy off. 'You don't know what they are doing next!' 'Don't want to touch it!' 'Nothing settled!'

Grimes: What are they talking about?

Smith: Industrial developers. - they just shrug their shoulders.

Grimes: I don't feel so. My experience is that industrial people come in - indicate their plans to you - you give them an estimate on what their taxes will be -- What they want is a firm idea of what will happen to taxes.

Smith: Some of this happened years ago - got tossed around by the town - it was a different town manager.

Grimes: Only thing I can do is to give a property estimate and value in the future.

Smith: My point is that this is another sore eye for the town.

Epstein: Just because an industry might want a particular piece of land, and is willing to pay a good price for it, doesn't mean that all land is worth that. Five years from now somebody might be willing to pay $40,000 for an acre. Can't re-value the whole town because of that!

Evans: One solitary word is that this is discrimination. I told Fred (Grimes) that if he gets away with this he'll be a hero - more than that -- he'll be Robin Hood!

If our prices got this much out of whack - if in a few years - a new price came in -- and everybody was upped 300 to 600% -- if we get this much out of whack - the thing we'll have to do is to sell. This is discrimination - this calls for equal treatment.

Evans then went on to cite the case of one industrialist who had bought some 'extra' land for future expansion and said 'He's sick!'

Sumberg: At least the approach seems logical, and I would much rather be in a town where the approach is logical. There aren't many communities that are really up to date. Any guy who can do a job like this and not make a mistake is a genius -- if you'll continue your logical approach --

Grimes: I may have made many mistakes - if so I'll be glad to correct them - glad to talk with any one in my office.

IMAGINE MEETING YOU HERE! Two Tewksbury motorists met suddenly at 8:25 pm last night, on Main Street, in front of Tom's Chevron Station.

George Nugent Jr, 99 Brown Street, driving a black Corvair on Main Street, struck a Mercury (also black) coming out of the Wilmington Ford yard, and driven by C G Niske of 1408 Whipple Road. Nugent was taken to St Johns Hospital in Lowell, in the Fire Department ambulance, suffering from possible concussion of the head

THE FIRST HAIRCUT: In the new barbershop on Burlington Avenue near the Burlington line was given, yesterday, to Tom Carbone, by Art Massaro. Arthur, popular barber at Ralph's, in N. Wilmington, will operate and manage Ralph's new shop.

RECEPTION FOR DAN JOYCE AND ANDY BENSON

A goodly number of interested Wilmington residents met at the Leahy and Dick homes, on Woburn Street, last Thursday to honor Daniel Joyce of Woburn, candidate for the House of Representatives, and Andrew Benson of Malden. After an initial cocktail hour the group first heard from Mr Benson, who commented on the need for a real Democrat in Congress from this district.

Dan Joyce then commented briefly on his own candidacy, and noted that the new district is large enough so that it should have two representatives. He intends to lead the fight for the people of this district so that there will be ample voice and leadership on Beacon Hill.

Toastmaster was Bob Porteus, former Massachusetts State Committeeman. Bob called for the election of Joyce as Representative for many reasons. He noted that Joyce is the only Democratic candidate who is a practicing attorney and who has passed the Massachusetts Bar.

Porteus, well known as a player on the Wilmington Town Team of the Carling League, said that the need is for a young aggressive Democrat to be Wilmington's representative in the General Court.

VETERANS
(Fr Pg. 6)

The Finance Committee noted that the Town Counsel had advised that the money transferred to the PBC account this spring, about $4500, was now in a 'clear' status, as the result of an opinion by Town Counsel. The transfer had been challenged by former Town Manager Joseph Courtney.

The $4500, the Finance Committee felt, could supply the money needed for an outside appraiser.

FROM TED

lish and use good spelling, but I'm sure I failed. Yet it isn't the style or perfection of this letter that matters, it's just the contents.

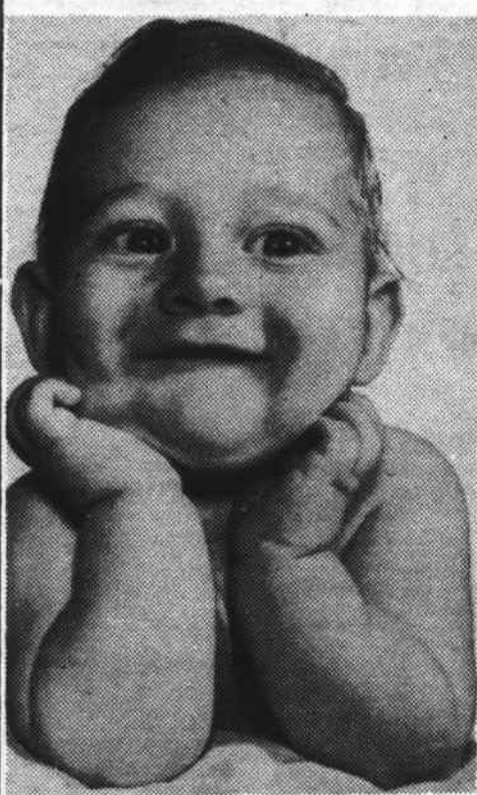

I guess to sum up the whole letter, I could just say 'May God keep you and your family in his best care and if you do have to have the operation, good luck. I will pray for you every night. God bless you for ever and ever, and let's keep this ship afloat'.

The Answer

The letter, which is one of the thousands which Ted Kennedy receives every week, was given his personal attention.

On July 22nd a chrysanthemum plant was delivered to Lillian, in the ward where she was staying. With it was a note of thanks from Joan Kennedy, for herself and for her husband.

And Lillian, who faces the next six months in a cast, had a special flower from Ted Kennedy, which she still keeps by her bedside.

January

First?

That's easy to remember!

To simplify subscription book-keeping procedures the Town Crier is making January first the date for all subscriptions to be renewed.

Everyone will be able to remember that date: - Even the Town Crier!

Accordingly, as fast as can be accomplished, the Town Crier will transfer present subscribers, with subscriptions on dates other than January first, to that date. This will take time. It is anticipated that the job will take about two years to accomplish.

But, to hasten the process, and to add an incentive, the Town Crier is offering a six month subscription for $1, to new subscribers, and to old subscribers whose subscription is just about to expire.

Clip the coupon - mail it to the Town Crier, North Wilmington, Mass, together with $1, and you'll receive the Town Crier in the mail until Jan 1, 1965! It's that easy!
